Lost And Found

BUILDINGS may crumble and Conference members may move half across the continent, but thanks to our watchful and helpful friends we are able to keep up with at least some of our peripatetic members.

Following the publication of a list of "missing members" in the January Bulletin and a request for their present addresses, a letter arrived in the Conference office from a trustee of the Village of South Orange, N. J. A few lines were devoted to the whereabouts—or non-whereabouts—of a woman member whose address obviously had changed. Said the letter:

"This was formerly the headquarters of our E. R. A. Training Center. As the E. R. A. was broken up about a year ago and since this building has since been demolished, she naturally is not there."

A few days later another letter arrived from another source reporting the missing member now is living in Detroit and employed by a private social agency.

P. S.—If you have changed your address or if you know of any Conference member whose address has changed recently, please send the new information to the Conference office.

Invitations For 1939

SELECTION of the 1939 Conference city will be made by the Conference Time and Place Committee in Indianapolis next May. Cities wishing to present invitations may obtain information concerning requirements and procedure from the Conference office now.

The committee, headed by Dorothy C. Kahn, chairman, is scheduled to meet Monday, May 24, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Parlor T of the Claypool Hotel to receive invitations and permit local committees to present their bids. The committee's recommendation will be announced during the annual National Conference business meeting, 11 o'clock Wednesday morning May 26 in Murat Theatre, for action of the Conference.

Then And Now

WHEN the National Conference first met in Indianapolis, forty-six years ago, it established a record for itself. The Conference Proceedings for 1891 reports the annual meeting of that year attracted 568 registered delegates—314 from Indianapolis and 254 from other parts of the country.

"It was," boasted the report, "the largest number we have had anywhere."

The second visit of the Conference to Indianapolis, in 1916, resulted in a registration of 3,140 persons. The Local Committee in Indianapolis this year anticipates a registration surpassing the record established in Atlantic City last year when 6,673 persons registered.

CONFERENCE HEADQUARTERS

Registration, Information, Consultation Service and Spacious Lounge Will be Housed in Murat Temple; List of Booth Occupants Announced

MURAT TEMPLE will be one of the most popular places in Indianapolis from May 23 to 29, for it will serve as Conference Headquarters and the center of activity for the 64th Annual Meeting.

The building is in the downtown area, within convenient walking distance (or a very short ride for those who prefer transportation on wheels) of the Conference hotels and meeting places. In addition to its favored location, it is spacious and well suited to general headquarters needs.

The first floor will house Consultation Service and booths, registration and information and executive offices. The second floor will be reserved as a lounge and furnished with plenty of deep-cushioned chairs. Other services in the building will include desks for the sale of luncheon and dinner tickets, election headquarters and press service.

Several of the larger meetings are scheduled in the Murat Theatre, a unit of Murat Temple. The evening general sessions of the Conference will be held in Cadle Tabernacle which also is near the center of the downtown area.

Everyone registering will receive a copy of the final Conference program which will contain information about meeting places, hours, speakers, directions for getting around the city and other valuable data for delegates. All persons attending the annual meeting should go to Headquarters and register as soon as possible after arriving in Indianapolis.

Consultation Service has become such an important part of the annual meetings that every year the Conference and associate groups plan to make it increasingly comprehensive and valuable. This year is no exception. Representatives of many national social work organizations, from both private and public fields, will be on hand in consultation and exhibition booths at Headquarters. Everyone attending the annual meeting is invited to make full use of Consultation Service.

The familiar Date Palm will be there, too, serving as a meeting place and conversation center for the delegates.

The following organizations have reserved booths at Conference Headquarters:

American Association of Medical Social Workers.
American Association on Mental Deficiency.
American Association of Psychiatric Social Workers.

American Association of Schools of Social Work.
American Association of Social Workers.
American Association of Visiting Teachers.

SOMETHING ABOUT MEMBERSHIPS

MANY sound arguments exist for retaining and extending the membership enrollment of the National Conference of Social Work. However, we believe none is so sound as the fact that the National Conference represents all social work, serves all social workers and depends solely for its support upon the modest membership fees paid by social agencies and social workers.

In this era of changing social work when private and public welfare are defining the bounds of their service, when professional methods are undergoing a constant process of refining, when skeptics on every side seek to challenge the efficiency of the trained social worker and the integrity of an essential craft, social work is engaged in a hard—if certainly successful—battle. It is a battle of interpretation, a battle encompassing strong internal building, a battle in which social work must prove to its disparagers the merit of its cause.

What better means of accomplishment than through the unity of organization?

In conducting its annual meetings, in publishing its Proceedings and other literature, in representing organized social work, in interpreting the performance and accomplishments of social work, the National Conference is outstanding; its service essential.

Serving all social work, the National Conference establishes no boundaries; its accomplishments accrue to the benefit of members and non-members, to agencies and institutions in both private and public fields, to agencies and individuals represented at all the annual meetings as well as those only occasionally represented.

The Conference performs a job that needs the support of social agencies and social workers everywhere—a job that merits such support.

The National Conference of Social Work does not turn to funds or foundations for financial support. It does not depend upon contributions. The Conference supports itself through memberships. And a membership is an investment in better social work.

Following are the membership classes:

Active membership—$5. This is for individuals and provides the Proceeding (which otherwise costs $3 a volume), the Conference Bulletin and free registration at the annual meeting. If the member does not wish the Proceedings, the fee is $3.

Sustaining membership—$10. This is for individuals wishing to share more generously in the support of the Conference and for organizations with smaller budgets. Organizations receive the right to four free registrations at the annual meeting for board or staff members in addition to the other privileges.

Institutional membership—$25. This is the regular class for organizations and agencies. It provides the right to ten free registrations at the annual meeting for board or staff members in addition to the other privileges.

Memberships may be sent to the Conference office. Use the blank below.

The Conference City

ONE of the impressive features distinguishing Indianapolis as a Conference city is its central location. Sixty miles northeast of the population center of the United States, the city is easily accessible from points throughout the country.

By highway, Indianapolis is 191 miles from Chicago, 111 from Cincinnati, 241 from St. Louis, 304 from Cleveland, 363 from Pittsburgh, 575 from Washington, D. C., 649 from Philadelphia, 746 from New York City, 600 from Omaha. The highways are excellent, too, with main transcontinental routes running through the center of the city.

It is abundantly favored with other modes of transportation as well. One hundred sixty-five trains enter and leave the Union Station daily. The city is a division point of three transcontinental bus lines and is a major port of call for three national air lines.

Indianapolis itself contains many features that Conference-goers hope for in a city: ample meeting places in a compact area, plenty of modestly-priced hotels, a conveniently situated headquarters for Conference week, taxicabs with low rates and numerous interesting places to visit and things to see. Of the latter, the city is justly proud of its many memorials, homes of famous statesmen and writers, educational institutions, residences and parks.

James Whitcomb Riley's home, for example, is open to the public and maintained as a shrine for admirers of the Hoosier poet. Other homes to see are those of the late President Benjamin Harrison; the late Albert J. Beveridge, author and statesman; Booth Tarkington, and Meredith Nicholson, author and ambassador.

Among the distinguished memorials are the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in the circle at the heart of the downtown area, and the expansive World War Memorial also in the downtown district. Indianapolis is the home of Butler University, the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music, the John Herron Art Museum and the Indiana University Medical Center. Here, too, is the Indianapolis Speedway, scene of the internationally famous annual motor classic.

A city of nearly 400,000 population and the State Capital, Indianapolis is an excellent spot for a meeting of the National Conference of Social Work. Every indication points to as successful a session next May 23-29 as the Conference experienced at its first Indianapolis meeting in 1891 and its second in 1916.

Housing Committee

THE Hotel and Housing Committee will be on duty at Conference Headquarters in Murat Temple to help delegates with their housing problems. If you arrive in Indianapolis for the annual meeting without hotel reservations or if your reservations prove unsatisfactory, call on the committee. Every effort will be made to provide satisfactory accommodations.

General Sessions

OUTSTANDING leaders in public affairs will address the general sessions at the 64th annual meeting of the National Conference of Social Work.

Four evening general sessions have been arranged in addition to a reception to the Conference President. The one daytime session—the final Conference luncheon—is to be announced later. All the evening meetings are to be held in Indianapolis' large auditorium, Cadle Tabernacle.

Following is the list of general sessions with notes about the speakers:

Sunday, May 23

Edith Abbott, president of the National Conference of Social Work: Presidential Address.

Miss Abbott is dean of the Graduate School of Social Service Administration at the University of Chicago, a post she has held since 1924. She is co-editor of the Social Service Review and the author of several works including among others, "Women in Industry," "Immigration—Select Documents and Case Records," "Historical Aspects of the Immigration Problem" and "Social Welfare and Professional Education."

Monday, May 24

United States Senator Robert F. Wagner: "Requirements for Permanent Security."

Senator Wagner has been actively identified with much of the progressive federal social legislation of recent years. Among other measures, he introduced into the Senate the National Industrial Recovery Act, the Social Security Act, the National Labor Relations Act and the Railway Pension Act. He has represented the State of New York in the Senate since 1927.

Tuesday, May 25

Charles P. Taft, II, former general chairman of the Cincinnati Community Chest: "Public Welfare and Efficiency in Government."

Mr. Taft, a lawyer, has devoted much of his time for several years working for better municipal and county government. He was a member of the Cincinnati City Charter Committee and chairman of the Governor's Commission on County Government.

Thursday, May 27

Reception to the President of the Conference.

Friday, May 28

Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan.

Governor Murphy's untiring work for industrial peace the past several months is widely known. Prior to his election as governor, Mr. Murphy served as governor-general of the Philippines, after resigning as mayor of Detroit to accept that post.

Saturday, May 29

Final Conference luncheon. Speaker and topic to be announced.

Nominations

CHAIRMEN of the Conference Nominating Committee and section nominating committees are seeking suggestions for 1938-39 officers. The chairmen request that Conference members submit suggestions for nominees who will be reported at the Indianapolis meeting and voted upon next year at the Seattle meeting.

Send to Neva R. Deardorff, 44 E. 23rd St., New York City, your suggestions for Conference president, first vice-president, second vice-president, third vice-president and executive committee, seven members to be elected for a three-year term.

Send to John P. Sanderson, 31 Gibbs St., Rochester, N. Y., your suggestions for the following officers for Section I, Social Case Work: chairman, vice-chairman and committee of at least three members to be elected for a three-year term.

Send to Margaret Williamson, 600 Lexington Ave., New York City, your suggestions for the following officers for Section II, Social Group Work: chairman, vice-chairman and committee of at least three members to be elected for a three-year term.

Send to Pierce Atwater, 404 Wilder Building, St. Paul, Minn., your suggestions for the following officers for Section III, Community Organization: chairman, vice-chairman and committee of at least three members to be elected for a three-year term.

Send to the Rev. Francis J. Haas, St. Francis Seminary, St. Francis, Wis., your suggestions for the following officers for Section IV, Social Action: chairman, vice-chairman and committee of at least three members to be elected for a three-year term.

Send to Katharine F. Lenroot, Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., your suggestions for the following officers for Section V, Public Welfare Administration: chairman, vice-chairman and committee of at least three members to be elected for a three-year term.

Ballots Mailed

OFFICIAL ballots were mailed March 15 to Conference members entitled to vote in the current elections or who may become entitled to vote by renewal of their membership fees.

Ballots may be mailed to the Conference office if timed to arrive by May 13 or may be deposited at the polls in Conference headquarters in Indianapolis Wednesday, May 26, from 9 o'clock a. m. to 1 p. m. and Thursday, May 27, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. All ballots, in sealed envelopes, will be turned over to the Committee on Tellers May 27.

In accordance with a constitutional amendment adopted at the last annual meeting, election of officers will be by a majority of votes cast rather than by the proportional representation system previously used.

Registration Procedure

EVERYONE attending the Indianapolis meeting should register at Conference headquarters in the Murat Temple and obtain an admission card to National Conference sessions.

National Conference members in good standing and designated representatives of member agencies will pay no additional fee. Non-members, upon registering, become Conference members in at least the minimum classification of $3.

Persons who plan to attend the annual meeting but one day will be permitted to pay a registration fee of $1 and receive credentials entitling them to attend the sessions for one day.

In order to facilitate registration procedure, members should bring their membership cards and show them at the registration booth. The cards also will be needed for voting purposes, as they will be required for admission to the business session. In most cases the cards of members entitled to vote bear a proper notation. Qualified voters who paid their last fee prior to December 1, 1936, should have their membership cards stamped at the registration desk.

No Railroad Certificates

SINCE the introduction of general passenger rate reductions several months ago, railroads no longer offer special convention fares. Therefore, the Conference will mail no railroad certificates this year. Many railroads maintain special group coach party fares, however, and permit twenty-five or more persons to charter an entire car, paying a round-trip rate of one and one-half cents a mile. Information may be obtained from local railroad offices.

Pugsley Award

CONTINUING a practice started several years ago, Chester D. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y., will present $250 to one of the speakers on the program of the 64th Annual Meeting of the National Conference of Social Work in Indianapolis. The prize, known as the Pugsley Award, is to be given for the paper which, in the judgment of the Conference Editorial Committee, makes the most important contribution to the subject matter of social work.

Luncheon And Dinner Tickets

TICKETS for luncheons and dinners during the annual meeting will be on sale at an office maintained in Conference Headquarters in Murat Temple. It is important to buy tickets early because in many cases reservations will be limited and in others the accommodations for guests will be governed by advance ticket sales.

SOCIAL CASE WORK

William H. Savin, Director, Family Service Association, Washington,
D. C., Chairman.

C. W. Areson, Chief Probation Officer, Court of Domestic Relations,
New York City, Vice-Chairman.

Monday, May 24

9:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

Three meetings of the Case Work Section, this one, Group Meeting 1 on Tuesday, and Group Meeting 1 on Thursday, comprise a series dealing with cultural factors in the lives of clients.

Psychiatrists and social case workers alike are aware of outside pressures upon the individual as well as of his own pressures from within. In the first paper in this series of meetings, a psychiatrist throws the cultural problems into bold relief and discusses them from the standpoint of psychiatric treatment. In the subsequent papers, case workers discuss utilization of an understanding of cultures in the practice of case work.

1. The Impact of Cultural Restraints Upon the Individual—Unadjustments which Follow and Their Treatment.

Abram Kardiner, M.D., Practicing Psychiatrist and Lecturer, New York Psychoanalytic Institute, New York City.

2. The Case Worker's Need for Orientation to the Culture of the Client.

Maurine Boie, Assistant in Social Economy, Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania.

Tuesday, May 25

11:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

Group Meeting 1.

Cultural Problems continued. (See Monday meeting and Thursday Group 1 meeting of this section.)

Problems of Conflict with the mores of one's own Group may be divided into intra-family; e. g. it is expected that every parent will love his children, married couples will love each other, children will have life-long devotion to their parents, etc.; and extra-family: e. g. the community expects every man to be self-supporting, honest, patriotic, to submit to authority, etc.

1. Helping the Client to Deal with His Reactions to Restraints Governing Intra Family Relationships.

Adelaide Johnesse, School of Social Service Administration, University of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois.

2. Helping the Client Deal with Resistance to Prescribed Standards of Behavior in the Community.

Speaker to be announced.

Discussant:

Walter Adams, M.D., Psychiatrist, Provident Hospital, Chicago, Illinois.

Group Meeting 2.

Modern Case Work Practice is predicated upon a belief that the differential approach is essential to effective treatment; in other words, that the individual client in his particular setting must be the point of focus.

Basic Concepts Upon Which Case Work Practice Is Formulated.

A. Gordon Hamilton, Director of Social Service, State Temporary Relief Administration, New York City.

Discussion:

Application of these Concepts to Public Relief.

Application of these Concepts to Rural Work.

Application of the Concepts to Work with Transients.

Discussants to be announced.

Group Meeting 3.

Both case work and group work have, for years, been engaged in the formulation of their underlying philosophies. Perhaps nowhere in the country is a more searching effort being made by each group to understand the other's philosophy than in Cleveland. The following is a report upon the Cleveland project carried on during the current year.

Interplay of the Insights of Case Work and Group Work.

1. As Seen by a Group Worker.

Gertrude Wilson, Field Instructor in Group Work, School of Applied Social Sciences, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

2. As Seen by a Case Worker.

Anna Belle Tracy, Associate Professor and Director of the Course in Psychiatric Social Work, School of Applied Social Sciences, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Wednesday, May 26

9:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

No problem confronting case workers, and other citizens alike, is more urgently in need of clarification than our responsibility regarding social and economic matters adversely affecting the marginal income group.

Relief, Is It Limited to the Mopping Up of Economic Ills, or Can It Contribute to Their Prevention?

Charlotte E. Carr, Executive Director, Emergency Relief Bureau, New York City.

Discussants:

The Very Reverend Francis J. Haas, Rector, Seminary of St. Francis de Sales, St. Francis, Wisconsin.

Leona M. Evans, District Superintendent, St. Louis Provident Association, St. Louis, Missouri.

Thursday, May 27

11:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

Group Meeting 1.

Cultural Problems continued. (See Monday meeting and Tuesday Group 1 meeting of this section.)

The Contribution of case work in dealing with the problems of adjustment to an unfamiliar culture.

1. Case Work with Foreign Born and the Children of Foreign Born.

Mary E. Hurlbutt, Faculty Member, New York School of Social Work, New York City.

2. A Social Science Approach to Case Work with the American Indian.

H. Scudder Meekel, Field Representative in Charge of Applied Anthropology, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C.

Group Meeting 2.

Social workers, in this period of extension of public welfare, need to maintain a perspective upon the functions of all agencies, public or private.

Re-Evaluation of Responsibilities of the Private Case Work Agency in the Social Welfare Program of a Community.

1. A Private Case Work Agency Looks at Its Job.

Herschel Alt, General Manager, St. Louis Provident Association, St. Louis, Missouri.

2. A Layman Takes Stock of Public and Private Agency Functions.

Speaker to be announced.

Group Meeting 3.

(Joint Session with the Child Welfare League of America.)

At least a quarter of a million children in the United States are living in foster homes or institutions away from their own parents. Individualization is the watch-word of service to this group. Some recent developments of this philosophy of service are dealt with here.

The Role of Substitute Parenthood.

1. Fostering Normal Emotional Development of Children Denied the Care of Their Own Parents.
Edith L. Lauer, Field Secretary, Jewish Children's Society, Baltimore, Maryland.
2. Meeting the Problems of the Normal Adolescent (As Differentiated From Smaller Children) in the Foster Home or Institution.
Irene Liggett, Assistant Secretary, Children's Aid Society, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Group Meeting 4.

The principles of generic case work are gradually permeating treatment of delinquent boys both while in the correctional institution, and later when on parole.

Case Work with Adolescents Who Have Run Afoul of the Law.

1. From the Point of View of an Institutional Superintendent.
Herbert D. Williams, Superintendent, New York State Training School for Boys, Warwick, New York.
2. From the Point of View of a Community Case Work Agency.
Susan Burlingham, Case Worker, Philadelphia Family Society, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Group Meeting 5.

Logically, a majority of the recent papers on case work have dealt with complicated problems and intensive treatment methods. Most case work agencies, however, are not engaged in intensive treatment of a majority of their cases.

The meeting is planned for a presentation of the application of recently developed skills to the less intensive case.

Methods Applicable Where Simplified Treatment Is Indicated.

1. What Is Involved in Simplicity of Treatment?
Muriel Morehead, District Secretary, Cleveland Associated Charities, Institute of Family Service, Cleveland, Ohio.
2. The Modern Use of Older Treatment Methods.
Margaret Millar, Case Supervisor, Family Welfare Association, Baltimore, Maryland.

Friday, May 289:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.*Group Meeting 1.

Since the country-wide establishment of public relief, and more especially since the Social Security program got under way, there has been a marked extension of the application of the case work principle away from urban areas.

Some Recent Developments in Rural Social Case Work.

1. Is a Re-Definition of Case Work Necessary to Its Use in Small Towns and Rural Communities?
J. Sheldon Turner, Executive Secretary, Frederick County Welfare Board, Frederick, Maryland.
2. The Growth of Child Welfare Services in Rural Areas.
Mildred Arnold, Director, Children's Division, Department of Public Welfare, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Group Meeting 2.

Within the past two or three years many marriage clinics and family counselling bureaus have come into being under a wide variety of auspices and staffed with persons with a wide variety of professional skills. Since the very nature of the service calls for individualization, it should be interesting to consider how this movement is related to case work services afforded by family societies.

Marriage Counselling—The Contribution of Generic Case Work in this Field.

1. Marriage and Family Relations Clinics.
Mrs. Stuart Mudd, Counselor, Philadelphia Marriage Counsel, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
2. Family Case Work with Marital Difficulties.
Marion Schmadel Goodwin, Assistant Executive Secretary, Associated Charities Family Consultation Service, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Group Meeting 3.

As the principles of modern case work, which have been developed where the relationship of client to worker was wholly voluntary, are adopted by agencies to which the client comes most unwillingly, how valid are our broad principles—what modifications need to be made?

Case Work in an Authoritarian Setting.

1. Functioning Under the Authority of the Court.
William A. McGrath, United States Probation Officer, United States District Court, New York City.
2. Case Work in Protective Agencies.
E. Marguerite Gane, Executive Secretary, Erie County Children's Aid Society, Buffalo, New York.

Saturday, May 2911:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

At the close of a week of presentation and discussion of a variety of material, let us set as our objective for the year ahead the sharpening of our insight into the problems of each client.

Diagnosis—The Dynamic of Effective Treatment.

1. Professional Skills Requisite To a Good Intake Service.
Almena Dawley, Chief Social Worker, Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
2. The Diagnostic Process in Continuing Treatment.
Speaker to be announced.

SECTION IISOCIAL GROUP WORK

J. E. Sproul, Senior Secretary for Program Service, National Council, Y. M. C. A.'s, New York City, Chairman.

Clara A. Kaiser, Faculty, New York School of Social Work, New York City, Vice-Chairman.

Monday, May 249:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

1. Problems and Relations of Schools and Leisure Time Agencies in Education and Guidance of Youth and Adults.
Speaker to be announced.
2. A School-Centered Group Activity Program—Report and Appraisal.
Miriam H. Dettelbach, Assistant Executive Secretary, Council of Social Agencies, Richmond, Virginia.

Tuesday, May 259:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.*Aspects of the Group Leadership Problem.

1. An Experiment in Training Group Leaders and Supervisors.
Everett W. DuVall, All Nations Foundation and School of Social Work, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, California.
2. The Importance of Maturity and a Social Philosophy in Group Leaders and Supervisors.
Grace L. Elliott, New York City.

Wednesday, May 269:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.*Raising the Level of Professional Service in Leisure Time Agencies.

1. A Community Planning Group's Efforts to Set Standards and Improve Methods.
Joseph P. Anderson, Secretary, Group Work Division, Federation of Social Agencies of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
2. The National Agency's Role in Developing Personnel and Employment Standards.
Agnes B. Leahy, Executive Secretary, Personnel Division, Girl Scouts, New York City.
3. Cooperation Among Group Workers on a National Scale.
Charles E. Hendry, Associate Professor, George Williams College, Chicago, Illinois.

SECTION III

COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION

Ellen C. Potter, M.D., Medical Director, Department of Institutions and Agencies, Trenton, New Jersey, Chairman.

Rose J. McHugh, Assistant Commissioner, State Department of Social Welfare, Albany, New York, Vice-Chairman.

Monday, May 24

11:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

A philosopher reports upon developments in community organization which have grown out of the necessity of adjusting to social changes; of meeting new social conditions; and draws some conclusions.

Community Planning.

New Patterns of Community Organization.

Eduard C. Lindeman, New York School of Social Work and National Youth Administration, Washington, D. C.

Tuesday, May 25

11:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

Too frequently attempts to effect any state-wide social planning are the off-spring of emergency; there is scant state-wide opinion for the support of the plan; the responsibility for creating the public support is too often divided. This session will consider ways and means by which these handicaps to successful state planning may be minimized.

Richard K. Conant, Field Secretary, Massachusetts Conference of Social Work, Boston, Massachusetts, presiding.

State-Wide Planning of Social Work.

1. Stabilizing Palliation.

Benjamin E. Youngdahl, Director, Division of Coordinated Field Service, State Board of Control, St. Paul, Minnesota.

2. The Effectiveness of Citizens' Organizations in State-Wide Social Planning.

J. O. Wilson, Citizens' Committee on Public Welfare, Madison, Wisconsin.

Discussant:

Anita Eldridge, Executive Secretary, California Conference of Social Work, San Francisco, California.

Wednesday, May 26

9:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

Observations, widely scattered over the United States, indicate that mass organization exerts a powerful influence for or against sound social planning. In some areas active opposition or inertia nullifies the plan. This session will attempt to explore the possibilities of cooperative relationships in this field.

The Right Reverend Monsignor John O'Grady, Secretary, National Conference of Catholic Charities, Washington, D. C., presiding.

Mass Organization in Relation to Public Welfare Planning.

1. As Organized Labor Sees the Problem.

Speaker to be announced.

2. As Considered by a Fraternal Order.

Speaker to be announced.

3. As Considered by the American Legion.

Speaker to be announced.

Discussant:

William J. Ellis, Commissioner, New Jersey Department of Institutions and Agencies, Trenton, New Jersey.

Thursday, May 27

11:00 A. M.-12:30 P. M.

Sound social plans frequently fail of realization because the community does not understand the need for the plan or the methods by which it is proposed to realize it. This session will present the hopeful approach of one community to the problem of reducing the incidence of unemployment.

Sherby M. Harrison, General Director, Russell Sage Foundation, New York City, presiding.

How a City Developed a Plan to Meet New Needs.

Cincinnati's Organized Attack Upon Unemployment.

C. M. Bookman, Executive Vice-Chairman, Community Chest, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Friday, May 28

9:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

The local community finds itself confused in its attempt to develop a comprehensive social plan because of lack of a coordinated approach by national agencies to the local problems. How can these problems be constructively resolved?

Samuel A. Goldsmith, Executive Director, Jewish Charities, Chicago, Illinois, presiding.

Local Planning and National Agencies.

The Problems of a Local Community in an Attempt to Arrive at a Sound Social Plan.

R. K. Atkinson, Educational Director, Boys' Clubs of America, New York City.

Discussion Leader: Linton B. Swift, Executive Director, Family Welfare Association of America, New York City.

Representatives of national social agencies will share their thinking with those in attendance at this session.

Saturday, May 29

9:00 A. M.-10:30 A. M.

Social work, public and private, can no longer survive or successfully function if limited in its scope to local municipal units, on the one hand, or if developed as a bureaucratic highly centralized service on the other. The county as a unit for planning and service presents possibilities which will be discussed at this session.

The County as a Unit for Coordinate Planning and Service in Public and Private Social Work.

1. From the Point of View of a Public Official.

Speaker to be announced.

2. From the Point of View of the Private Agencies.

Pierce Atwater, Executive Secretary, Community Chest, St. Paul, Minnesota.

CONFERENCE WEEK HOTEL RATES

THE Indianapolis Housing Committee announces that satisfactory accommodations will be provided for everyone attending the 64th Annual Meeting of the National Conference of Social Work.

Reservations in the eighteen hotels designated for Conference use are being made rapidly. However, in addition to the hotels listed below, there are many smaller hotels in Indianapolis where rooms have been made available for delegates. All are conveniently near Murat Temple, which will serve as Conference headquarters. Assignment of rooms is being made through the Indianapolis Convention and Publicity Bureau.

Rates vary from $1.25 and up for single rooms, with reasonable prices also quoted for double rooms and suites. Make your reservations now!

HOTEL RESERVATIONS

THE longer you wait to send your requests for Indianapolis hotel reservations, the more limited your choice of accommodations will be. The Indianapolis Housing Bureau reports single rooms are in great demand and other types of accommodations also are being taken up rapidly.

The hotels are cooperating in every possible way to meet specific requests for reservations. It is suggested, however, that as far as possible, persons reserve double rooms and plan to share them with roommates.

All reservations should be made through the Indianapolis Convention and Publicity Bureau. The hotel in which your reservation is made will confirm your order. Please indicate hotels of first, second and third choice. Requests made on the application form printed below receive immediate attention.

The Housing Bureau can assume responsibility only for reservations made through its office and in hotels specified for Conference use.

Headquarters hotels selected by the associate and special groups are listed elsewhere in the Bulletin. The Claypool and Lincoln have been designated headquarters hotels for the National Conference.
